I just bought a new computer and I am having trouble with the sound. I have a Toshiba satellite laptop with a Realtek ALC886 Audio Codec. Whenever I download new software, the sound will just get mute for no reason. I was wondering if there is a solution to this problem. I have checked if there are any audio drivers that are not installed. When I searched the internet, I found that some people had some problems too with their laptops and they did the following: 1. Restricted Drivers. 2. Changed their sound port to a USB port 3. Uninstalled some audio drivers and did not install others. If you have some advice, please let me know. If you have a solution to my problem, please help. Some other things that I have tried are: 1. Revoked the audio drivers and installed them again. 2. The SPDIF port is not connected to my Realtek chip. 3. I uninstalled the Realtek audio drivers in the Control Panel. 4. I checked if there were any audio drivers not installed and they were not. Thank you for your help. Re: Related Deer Drive
