Mysis picta by Maxine Hanks. Defiance Series: First 10%Â .Q: The inner array in named array to be able to access them I am not sure the title is right but I do not know how to describe this. For instance, $arr = array( array( 'd' => "Hello", 'i' => "Hi" ) ); To access the inner array, I would normally use $arr["d"] But I want it to be $arr['d'] My question is: How can I make this happen? A: That is because you can't access the elements of an array like a normal array. $arr = array( array('d' => "Hello", 'i' => "Hi"), ); echo $arr[1]['d']; // 'Hello' 0cc13bf012
