Plugin Review gives you better understanding about use of 2015Â .During 2001-03, you've probably come across the term "non-traditional primary graduate" when you looked for internship/co-op opportunities at companies. This term has been, for lack of a better word, inherited by current accounting faculty and students. What does it mean? "Non-traditional primary graduate" is a term used to refer to someone who either didn't graduate with a bachelors degree in their field, or they have a masters or doctorate degree in their field, but that is not their first degree. This term is often used when companies, recruiting firms, or individual faculty members are trying to determine who is/isn't qualified for an internship. A lot of students or faculty members are shocked when they discover that they don't have a bachelors degree in accounting. There are several different kinds of non-traditional primary graduates. The easiest to categorize are folks with a masters or doctorate. These people tend to have a stronger work ethic, a better understanding of accounting, and better communication skills. Most importantly, they tend to be more flexible, and less interested in the traditional path that a typical accounting graduate would follow. All in all, they are a great addition to a company. There are a number of other kinds of non-traditional graduates. Some of them have taken a different path in their life, maybe started a family, or just took a couple extra years to do something else. Some of them didn't graduate at all. Some graduated in accounting, but didn't work in the profession. One of the best things that can happen to a non-traditional primary graduate is to contact the career center at

As I am new to Python, I tried to merge the following dictionaries using a loop. `cust = {'abc':['deo']}` `cust2 = {'abc':['jkl','mno']}` `cust3 = {'abc':['mno','pqr']}` `cust4 = {'abc':['mno','pqr','uvw']}` Result I want to achieve is: `{'abc':['deo','jkl','mno','pqr','uvw']}` I tried using `itertools.groupby` but I am not able to exactly get my expected result. A: If all dictionaries are in order : `from collections import defaultdict` `cust = {'abc':['deo']}` `cust2 = {'abc':['jkl','mno']}` `cust3 = {'abc':['mno','pqr']}` `cust4 = {'abc':['mno','pqr','uvw']}` `d = {k : [] for k in [cust,cust2,cust3,cust4]}` for `k, v` in `d.items()` for `k in ['abc']`: for `g,i` in `izip(cust[k].items(),v[k].items())`: `g`.
