Fri, 03 May 2019 20:50:23 +0000Game Key Features:Game Key Features: Will they ever make it to the west?I went to the Microsoft Store because I do not have access to a good gaming session, something that often occur with me in the past. After that, I walked to the Microsoft Store to see if I could find a solo game I could play. Also, I tried to set up a game with friends to play some unannounced game. After all, I thought if I could take more than one person, I could go with the Shelder Ball thing, and I could have some fun. I sat down at the arcades with 2 friends and we entered the room. After while, a message appeared on the screen.It said:"Welcome, Alex. Once you clear level 1..." There was no irony to the statement. Let me tell you this, the game has been years in the making. This is not a game where you just enter into a half-assed parody of an arcade video game. They have done their best with the tools they had to make something awesome. Microsoft, you have not done a good job at demonstrating what a real Xbox game should be. You should be proud of yourself. Props to the title designer, along with the sound artists and programmers. Keep up the good work! Sun, 27 Apr 2019 06:28:17 +0000Strange Curveball Launch Something happened yesterday that I wanted to write a post

:: GAMEPLAY :: The campaign mission follows the train from Hamburg to Hanover. :: BUGS :: The Steam Overlay icon sometimes shows up. We recommend that you disable it. :: SUPPORT :: You can support the development of this game by pre-purchasing this add-on via the Steam store. :: SOURCE :: Train Simulator Add-On by Andreas Bou and published by TrainSimulator.com, available on Steam and GOG.COM.au The route from Hamburg to Hanover is a major route in Lower Saxony, connecting the state capitals of Hamburg and Hanover and running from the state capital of Hanover to Germanys second largest city, Hamburg. In 1905 the line was completed, and was later extended to Hanover after the opening of the Hanover Flughafen station. Since the mid 2000s, the line has seen a busy mix of high speed and commuter trains alongside international freight trains. In the early 1970s, a number of trials took place to assess the lines capability for high speed running at 200km/h. The trials proved to be a success and later that decade, a 78km (48 mile) section from Langenhagen to Uelzen was relaid to accommodate high speed trains, with the rest of the route upgraded by the end of the 1980s. Today the routes 153km (95 mile) is seen a busy mix of high speed and commuter trains alongside international freight trains. From the major transport hub of Hamburg, the route runs south through Harburg, Lneburg, Uelzen and Celle. Landmarks along the route include the Metronom Depot at Uelzen, one of the companys main maintenance depots for its commuter trains, Hamburg Docks and Hanover Flughafens underground station. South of Hamburg is also Maschen Marshalling Yard, Europes largest such facility and the second largest freight yard in the World. Covering an area of 280 hectares, the yard is around seven kilometres long and has a total track length of 300km, handling up to 11,000 goods wagons each day. The line is probably most well-known for its record breaking feat on 13 August 1980, locomotive 120 002 set a new world speed record of 231km/h for rotary current locomotives between Celle and Uelzen. A further seven scenarios for the route are available on Steam Workshop online and in-game.
