In-game animations are generated from the “incredibly complex biology of the human body,” EA Sports’ E3 2017 presentation revealed. The result is that collisions of head on tackle, headers and chest bumps are more realistic and organic, as players change their poses after being hit. These can be used to buy coins and special players, which can then be used to complete special improvements. The game features six returning clubs: Chelsea, Manchester United, Real Madrid, Barcelona, Bayern Munich and Juventus. This year’s Champions League and UEFA Champions League final are also included, as is the option to play over 120 clubs in the UEFA Champions League Pro Leagues, which also includes a “counter-attacking” mode. And for the first time ever, players can compete in the UEFA Champions League, UEFA Europa League, UEFA Super Cup, the Club World Cup and of course the FIFA Club World Cup. Viscosity and Weight FIFA 22 introduces dynamic viscosity, which determines the density and resistance of the atmosphere as the ball moves and is controlled using a unique “weight” setting. It also introduces a new system for the use of metal studs on studded football boots. The game will also not allow players to wear studded golf shoes, which can lead to injury. Dynamic weight and FIFA 21's pass fakes is an all new feature that provides players with the ability to change the weight of their pass to fool the defense. The player can increase the weight of the pass to disguise the pass, or can decrease the weight to fool the player intercepting the pass. Because the weight affects both the
