Using this data, AI behaviors are improved and new animations are added to players in real time during gameplay. Players will now react to free kicks, dribbles, passes and shots depending on their on-field position, and their form changes based on how well they defend the ball, intercept the pass, make tackles, or offload the ball. We have heard FIFA gamers talk about using official player cues, animations and behaviors in some of their mod tools that follow existing real-life player behaviors, like what we added for Madden. We want to hear from the community what free-to-play modes you are most excited to play in FUT on a FIFA gameplay level. Some possible options for FUT mods include ZAM-ZAM: Soccer Ball zigzags across the pitch to evade defenses, then accelerates to escape through scoring zones or find open teammates. Racing: Defenders begin the match by flying at high speed to physically block the ball carrier's path. But as soon as the ball carrier starts a sprint, Defenders shift to the new position and accelerate at full speed to meet the ball carrier head on. Substitutions and kits: A team's entire playing roster is available for purchase. Teams may purchase any combination of superstars to achieve any results. Players receive different degrees of XP depending on their playing style. Levels: Match types - training, normal, and simulation Goalkeepers: Be the Hero, Decide Your Fate, Keepers are now more intelligent in relation to tackling and save percentage based on their age and caliber (i.e., a much younger goalie with a lower save percentage wouldn't have the same amount of credit for a saved shot as an older, more experienced goalie). Stability: Become the hero of your own story, Players now make their own goals, pressure the goalie, and impact the match outcome through their skill, level and ability to get more XP and level up quickly. The game makes it more difficult to level up and climb the ranks of better teams. Discipline: Player and Team management tools allow players to fine players or teams for misconduct and a match can be suspended after a team is repeatedly warned. Motions: Control player actions by dragging each player into a practice mode to see player animations and see what skill level they have, then drag them into a
