====== mbrock I use the chrome extension "Notes Plus Notes" [1] that easily organizes notes into a side window (I use Firefox). There's also "Note Pad Lite" [2] if you want something even simpler. [1] notes-... [2] lite/ji... ~~~ sillysaurus3 Thanks for sharing this. I tried both of these and notes plus notes is unfortunately what I ended up using. Not sure if there's a reason it's in Chrome, but it's just the only browser I use. ------ PaulMcFarland I use Nixnote with Gmail and its great. Super fast, easy to use. [~~~ erehweb I've used Nixnote in the past and it was good. But I didn't like the way the notes got tied to a "Notebook" \- and there didn't seem to be any way to link the notes back and forth. Have they replaced this functionality? ~~~ PaulMcFarland They have. You can look at this post for more information on how to use Nixnote with Gmail: [6a5afdab4c

Google Keep is a free note-taking app that makes it easy to jot down quick lists or ideas. Create a new note, add the Web or share an image, and it's on your phone, or easily access from your computer or Google Account. Create notes with linked addresses If you're browsing a web page while creating a note, the extension automatically links the address to your note. So you can share your notes with friends or let your mom edit them later. Unlink the address by clicking the trash bin icon next to the web address, or unlink all notes by clicking the circle icon. Delete notes and archive older ones Deleting a note is as easy as clicking the trash can icon. You can also get rid of notes by right-clicking on the icon, and selecting "delete note" or "archive." Review and access notes Keep your notes in a folder on your computer or phone with the web-based solution. After you create a note, you can preview it on your computer, or look for it in your Google Account. Periodontitis is a chronic infectious disease associated with loss of the supportive structure of the teeth leading to tooth loss. Its early diagnosis and treatment can help to prevent the disease from developing into chronicity. The aim of the current study is to determine the concentration of endotoxin in saliva and compare it with traditional methods. Saliva samples were collected from patients with periodontitis and healthy individuals. Endotoxin was detected by using two different methods: standard quantitative plate count test (QPC), and the spectrophotometer (sensitivity = 0.004 EU/ml). The data were analysed using SPSS and the significance level was set at P Q: no-hold behavior for trigger group that's being used I've added a trigger group that's being used in an expression, something like this: if(Properties.PropertyA!= "Something"){ //do something } //
