Anal then .Altered histone deacetylase 1 expression in the striatum of the human immunodeficiency virus type 1 (HIV-1) transgenic rat: reversal by valproic acid. Human immunodeficiency virus type 1 (HIV-1) causes a chronic, progressive neurodegenerative disease in humans. The precise pathophysiology by which HIV-1-induced neurodegeneration occurs remains to be determined. The neurodegenerative process associated with HIV-1 infection is likely complex, involving different cellular pathways. This study was designed to determine the role of histone deacetylase (HDAC) inhibition on neurodegeneration associated with HIV-1 replication in the striatum of the transgenic (Tg) rat model of HIV-1 infection. We show that the Tg rats exhibit decreased HDAC activity in the striatum compared to wild type (WT) rats. Histone
