This script will allow you to change the video frames into time codes, then use those time codes as that one's layers. After you set the time code, you may then be able to play it back. That will use the time codes as your layers. So for example, you would double click on any frame and you would be taken to a different movieclip so you can edit. It's good for temporary solutions to showing people frames as well as editing a specific frame. First off, you can change the video frames into time codes. These time codes will be independent of the original frames (just like how moving text over a still image does not take it out of the picture). This script will allow you to change the video frames into time codes, then use those time codes as that one's layers. After you set the time code, you may then be able to play it back.
