A: Icons are directly related to UI, and we can conclude that UI plays a huge role in determining whether someone will use your app or not. So the most logical conclusion is that you should create a well designed and balanced UI. Icons play a huge part in that. But then, the question of which icons to use naturally arises. While most designers do have their own preferences in the icons they use, I've always heard good things about

Brandiose. Their website offers the following: Brandiose is an icon set which is completely vectorized! Our icons are hand-crafted with best of the line design tools Brandiose icon set contains 565 icons with 12x12, 17x17 and 24x24 pixels in source SVG format. Icons can be used in any desktop project or website. Vendor: Everpix Studios, LLC, USA I've actually had very good results using their set, but that should be a good starting point. // Copyright (c) 2011 The LevelDB Authors. Proposal of a methodology based on the use of anthropomorphic test devices to identify and evaluate the common use of metallic materials in contemporary dental medicine. The aim of this study is to propose a methodology based on the use of anthropomorphic test devices (ATD) to identify and evaluate the common use of metallic materials in contemporary dental medicine. A first session of work was designed to analyse the current situation of the use of metallic materials in contemporary dental medicine in France. Results will be presented in a second session of work. A questionnaire was formulated based on the available information and then sent to the registrars of training in contemporary dental medicine in France. The discussion of the results enabled us to propose a methodological framework for a "post-graduate" diploma in contemporary dental medicine in France. All information regarding the use of metallic materials was pooled in a database. The main equipment used, the acquisition mode and

Also, from the proof of Theorem [thm:fact], we have $L_2 \equiv L_1^{\otimes 2}$ and $L_3 \equiv L_1^{\otimes 3}$, or in other words, $\langle \mathbf{1} \rangle \to (L_1)^{C_2} \to (L_1^{\otimes 2})^{C_2} \to (L_1^{\otimes 3})^{C_2} \to (\langle \mathbf{1} \rangle)^{C_2} \to \langle \mathbf{1} \rangle$ where $C_2 = \langle s \rangle \leq S_2$ is the cyclic group of order 2, and s acts on L_i by permuting the corresponding simple roots. Then by the following
