August 27, 2021 - Intensive full wave electromagnetic simulation was performed using Ansys HFSS design software. Structure of 4CDAA. Once the team had the simulation data and started the process, they ran a condition analysis for each of the six cylinders and got the results in the form of data. The team then made a prediction for each cylinder. The team obtained data on the state and speed of each cylinder to analyze the state and predict the results for each cylinder. The results obtained show that all six cylinders are in a normal condition for predicting results.
