Q: String variable in synchronized section

In my application I have some objects stored in a collection of type `ArrayList`. How can I sort/add to this list with synchronization? I know synchronized do provide a safe way to add/retrieve these objects, but does it also provide a safe way to add some field in these objects? i.e. an object of type `MyClass` which contains some string field.

Thanks.

A: Yes, synchronized blocks in collections like `ArrayList` work on field level

A: I suspect there is no possible way to synchronise just a single element in a collection. I would see a separate "collection" class that has add (I think you mean) and remove methods instead. You can have a

Q: How to update a variable using a toggle I want to update a variable based on whether the toggle is on or off. I don't need to toggle an image on/off, I just want to update the variable based on whether the toggle is on or off. I've looked at the code below, but I'm not sure how to go about updating a variable in the code below. `$(function () { $('es').click(function () { $(this).toggle(400, function () { if ($(this).is(":hidden")) { $(this).slideDown(400); } else { $(this).slideUp(400); } }); }); });` I'd prefer to keep it as simple as possible. Thanks in advance. A: `$(function () { $('es').click(function () { $(this).toggle(400, function () {`
