It's been a tense four years since Dr. Hades' shenanigans made the globe a literal burning shell of molten rock. You're not one to stand idly by, however, as your most recent missions -- in which you smacked the envious archenemy square on the beak -- have left you with precious little time to catch your breath. Now, after such a severe moment of respite, the Chairman of the Board has big plans for you. It's time to once again, set out into the bowels of Dr. Hades' lair and find the elusive Professor Arthos, as he's secretly been building a perfect replica of the legendary Vulcan nuclear arsenal -- a top-secret facility that could end the world in the worst way possible. You and your men must end this madness once and for all, and while the Chairman is offering you a seat at his table, don't be fooled by the welcoming smile. There are no second chances with Dr. Hades. You need only to remember this as you pay a visit to the Professor's newly constructed facility on a remote island...

Hacking Hardware Add-on Any Computer, Laptop or Tablet Available in the UK & Ireland

What's Hacking Hardware? We are very excited to announce the release of our latest add-on for Splinter Cell Blacklist, Hacking Hardware. Hacking Hardware has been specially designed for the Blacklist game as a stand-alone product. This product will give the player with a completely new challenge and experience the kind of gameplay that has become renowned across the Splinter Cell franchise. Hacking Hardware simulates a hi-tech hacking challenge for the player to complete, which requires the player to fully explore the computers of a unique threat. Unlike the original Blacklist where the only targets were human or human-made, the game in Hacking Hardware does not have this limitation and will require players to fully explore an array of computer systems, learning to adapt to threats which include viruses, trojans, worms, and emails. Working on CIA stations, intel files, and also university labs, the player will need to make careful decisions in order to complete the game with a valuable level of challenge, and make the

U.S. officials: Osama Bin Laden under cover of malaria drug June 5, 2010 Wednesday, Secretary of State Hillary Clinton (D-NY) revealed the United States has tapes verifying the location, identities and significance of Osama Bin Laden. On Wednesday night, the Obama administration released pictures of Osama Bin Laden's corpse to Reuters. However, it was very difficult for the Western media to verify the pictures received as the U.S. announced the existence of a spy “named” “Mallah-bin-Raḍih” who provided U.S. officials with crucial information on Bin Laden’s hiding place. According to the U.S. State Department’s own website, “Mallah-bin-Raḍih”(an Arabic term similar to “anonymous source”)had a relationship with the U.S. intelligence for two years and was the “sole channel for validating information produced by intelligence collection assets in and around the Tora Bora area.” On April 30th, NBC broke the news that the U.S. Navy Seal Team Six “captured” Osama Bin Laden’s blood and DNA found on the baseball cap Bin Laden wore during the attack on the CIA Caves. Though Bin Laden proved very difficult for the U.S. to find, his

What's new in Piozila:

4.3 miles total round-trip, 3,000 ft vertical gain WALKING CLIMB OLYMPIC HILLS is a 3,000 ft vertical gain peak, located 1.5 miles northwest of Whistler Village and 3.5 miles south of the Sea to Sky Highway. Although it is not a technical climb, the vertical gain from the summit is more than enough to boost you to the top of the Olympic Mountain Range. TRAILHEAD GPS COORDINATES: N49° 43.818' W121° 17.717' HOW TO GET THERE: Take Highway 99 (Whistler Blackcomb Parkway) to the Whistler Terminal resort (it's the first major intersection after Highway 99 narrows to one lane). From the terminal, take a Whistler Furgon (approximately 11 minutes, $9) (3800 Furgon Way) to the WCT bus stop (200 Whistler Furgon Way). Take the free ski and bike shuttle run from here 1.5 miles up to the Summit Lodge on the mountain (7000 Cascade Mountain Way). NOTE: During the summer, the Whistler Village Furgon will be discontinued (add approximately 25 minutes to the above schedule). If you've made it this far, you deserve a beer or something! You may want to follow the excellent restaurant choices available here. Hike/Drive Option: By car: From Whistler, take the Sea to Sky Highway and the signposted interpretive trail is about 0.5 miles from the highway. By bike: In Whistler there are two Sea to Sky cycle ways. Both are paved and quite scenic. If you have more time, choose the Lost Canyon bicycle route. It is scenic and fun, although there is a minimum impact fee of $20. IN BRIEF Exercise: Paying attention to your surroundings and your breathing will help you climb the Olympic Hills safely, hike in relative comfort, and travel quickly at the top. Best time: The weather should be fine in the summer, and you can expect few hikers at lower elevations (approximately 0-1,500 ft). Facilities: There are excellent signs to help you navigate on an easy day. Further info: For more information visit the Whistler Olympic Mountain website at www.whistler.ca/olympic.
