"We are confident that Rick, who will be working with his colleagues Jimmy Patterson, Perry Ellis and Bob Huggins, will help the team reach its full potential." Majerus, 55, joins the coaching staff of Mike Krzyzewski's group, with whom he previously worked as an assistant at the 1992 and 1996 Olympics. "It's a tremendous honor to join the group of coaches responsible for four of our five gold medal finishes as men's basketball coaches at the Olympic Games. I'm excited about the challenges ahead and the tremendous facilities at USA Basketball." Majerus joins Ellis, a forward who won two gold medals and a bronze in his three-year career with the Celtics and Rockets, as well as assistant Jim Les, the former head coach of the Arizona Wildcats and the 1990 NCAA champion Tennessee Volunteers. Patterson, the longtime head coach at Seton Hall, and Huggins, who has guided Kansas State to four Final Four appearances and four NCAA tournament title game appearances, join Krzyzewski as assistant coaches for the gold medal-winning USA Basketball teams. Majerus, a San Diego State University and the SDSU men's basketball head coach, was 5-0 as the head coach of the U.S. Olympic team in 1992 when the Americans won gold in Barcelona. He also helped Canada win the gold medal in 1996 with the Americans and again in 2000 in Sydney. He led the USA to a gold medal in the 2000 Goodwill Games in Sydney. He was named college coach of the year in 1997 when the Aztecs became the first team to win the NIT title with six seniors. Majerus led the Gonzaga Bulldogs to three consecutive NIT titles. "Rick brings the experience and knowledge as an assistant coach to the USA Basketball staff," Krzyzewski said. "He will be a great addition to the team and the entire USA Basketball family.
