A large built-in refrigerator with a biohazard sticker. . From the layout, Thomas realized that the back door was probably closer than risking going outside. And he walked forward, away from the large, empty space they had just passed. The black hatch opened and a shadow fell over Thomas. He froze, leaning against the wall. A hand with a knife reached out towards him. Thomas had no desire to mess with the man who held the knife. He quickly jumped back from the hatch. But it did not help. A knife flashed in the darkness. Thomas saw the knife, as in the photograph. He felt the blade touch him and go through his clothes before grazing his shoulder.
