I'm not a great mix in my comments but I'm generally not a fan of spamming in my posts, as well as not posting any longer than other posts on the same thread. Posts with no replies, as well as those with multiple replies. These do not need to be removed, just approved or ignored. When a comment is deleted, it has a reason listed. I will attempt to follow your rules here, but I reserve the right to not do so. In the future, if I am to see I'm being spammed, I will just delete the entire post. I like to try and prevent my hosting plan from getting shut down and I just can't take the time to look through a bunch of posts to delete multiple comments that were spam. Oh, and under the spam filter settings, I have set it to "All approved posts are considered Spam" because I don't think my web host needs to be notified when my site gets shut down for spam. I just want the posts to get deleted and not be allowed back. I will approve them in a timely fashion as I have time, but there is no way I can keep up with an onslaught of spam. Q: Unable to create index on table from temp data I have two tables, one contains temp data and second is for history. I want to create index on the first table. The second table should have index on columns based on temp data. I tried creating index on temp data and it's working fine. I am trying to do same on the second table which is giving error 'Cannot create index on table' create index ix_tipo_contrato on first_order_detail(codigo_tipo, codigo_contrato, id_grupo_sale, id_proveedor,
