GeneralCOST Estimator is a popular, easy-to-use, Microsoft Excel-based utility designed to provide users with a general cost estimate for the construction of various types of projects. It is designed to create estimates for both general construction contractors and home builders. By taking into account the cost of all major construction inputs, GeneralCOST Estimator is able to calculate the total cost of construction. Constructed in Excel format, the app offers a suite of fully customizable worksheets that are separated into categories for improved usability. The CSI worksheet includes 16 division cost categories, while others include: Equipment, Labor, Materials, and others. Designed to make it easy to view and edit data. GeneralCOST Estimator allows users to easily add new cost data, edit existing data, and apply their own overhead and profit factors. One of the biggest benefits has to do with the fact that GeneralCOST Estimator is completely contained within an Excel file. On-screen, users can select a reporting category, city, and subcontractor to see a list of available CSI divisions. They can then choose which division they want to see and right-click to choose a division cost category. With a single click, estimates can be created for each category. This data is then formatted into the corresponding worksheet. GeneralCOST Estimator also has an on-screen takeoff calculator and a city index selection for users to calculate the cost of projects in specific cities and an Excel-based PDF report printing feature. Despite its simple design, GeneralCOST Estimator offers an extensive online help system that covers all the key features. It comes with a setup guide and a video tutorial.
