application they should do so before the application goes live and they should have access to it. We are planning to have a pre-production server where the application will go live. Now, is there any way where we can configure the application in such a way that as the pre-production server is being updated, it will take the latest modifications into effect? I am asking this because I think it will be a waste of time to have a pre-production server updating the archived application. We will be updating it as-and-when required. A: In XCode
